

Proverbs Daily Dose of Wisdom Devotional

Chapter 7 By Verna Noble

July 7, 2015

In Proverbs chapter 7, we are encouraged to always follow the path of righteousness. Not only are we to obey the Lord's commands but we are to treasure them. They are given by the Lord. They are written deep within our hearts. His commands are given to protect us and to keep us from temptations. When sexually immoral temptations face us, the Lord guides us through His Word.

Even though your flesh may be enticed by someone or something that sounds good, smells good, and looks good, it could very well be your "undoing." Do not travel the road of sexual immorality because it will come with serious consequences and cause you to lose your integrity.

This chapter has a powerful warning not to be seduced into sexual sin. Your car has a manual, your cell phone has a manual, your TV, DVD player, etc., all have manuals and they give correct instructions on how to operate these devices. The Bible is the believer's manual on how to operate our lives. Refer to it frequently and live a blessed life.

Be encouraged as you read chapter 7 of Proverbs.
